SUMMARY OF INFORMATION

The Target is an event. Present at the event are four well-dressed men. The men are seated around a round table in a very well-furnished office. One of the men (central figure and talker) is pouring something clear out of a glass pitcher and hands it to one of the other men. The liquid is alcoholic and is in keeping with the setting of this room.

The event appears to be a meeting -- the man described earlier as pouring the liquid is doing most of the talking. He is fairly young (late 30's or early 40's) he has very black, greased-back hair and he is wearing a large gold ring on his finger (left hand). He is also wearing a gold watch on his left wrist. The setting is one of wealth or power. He speaks while being very expressive with his hands. He moves them around a lot trying to show his anger or frustration. What is going on is some kind of bargain or deal between this man, his associate to his left and the other two men seated across from him.

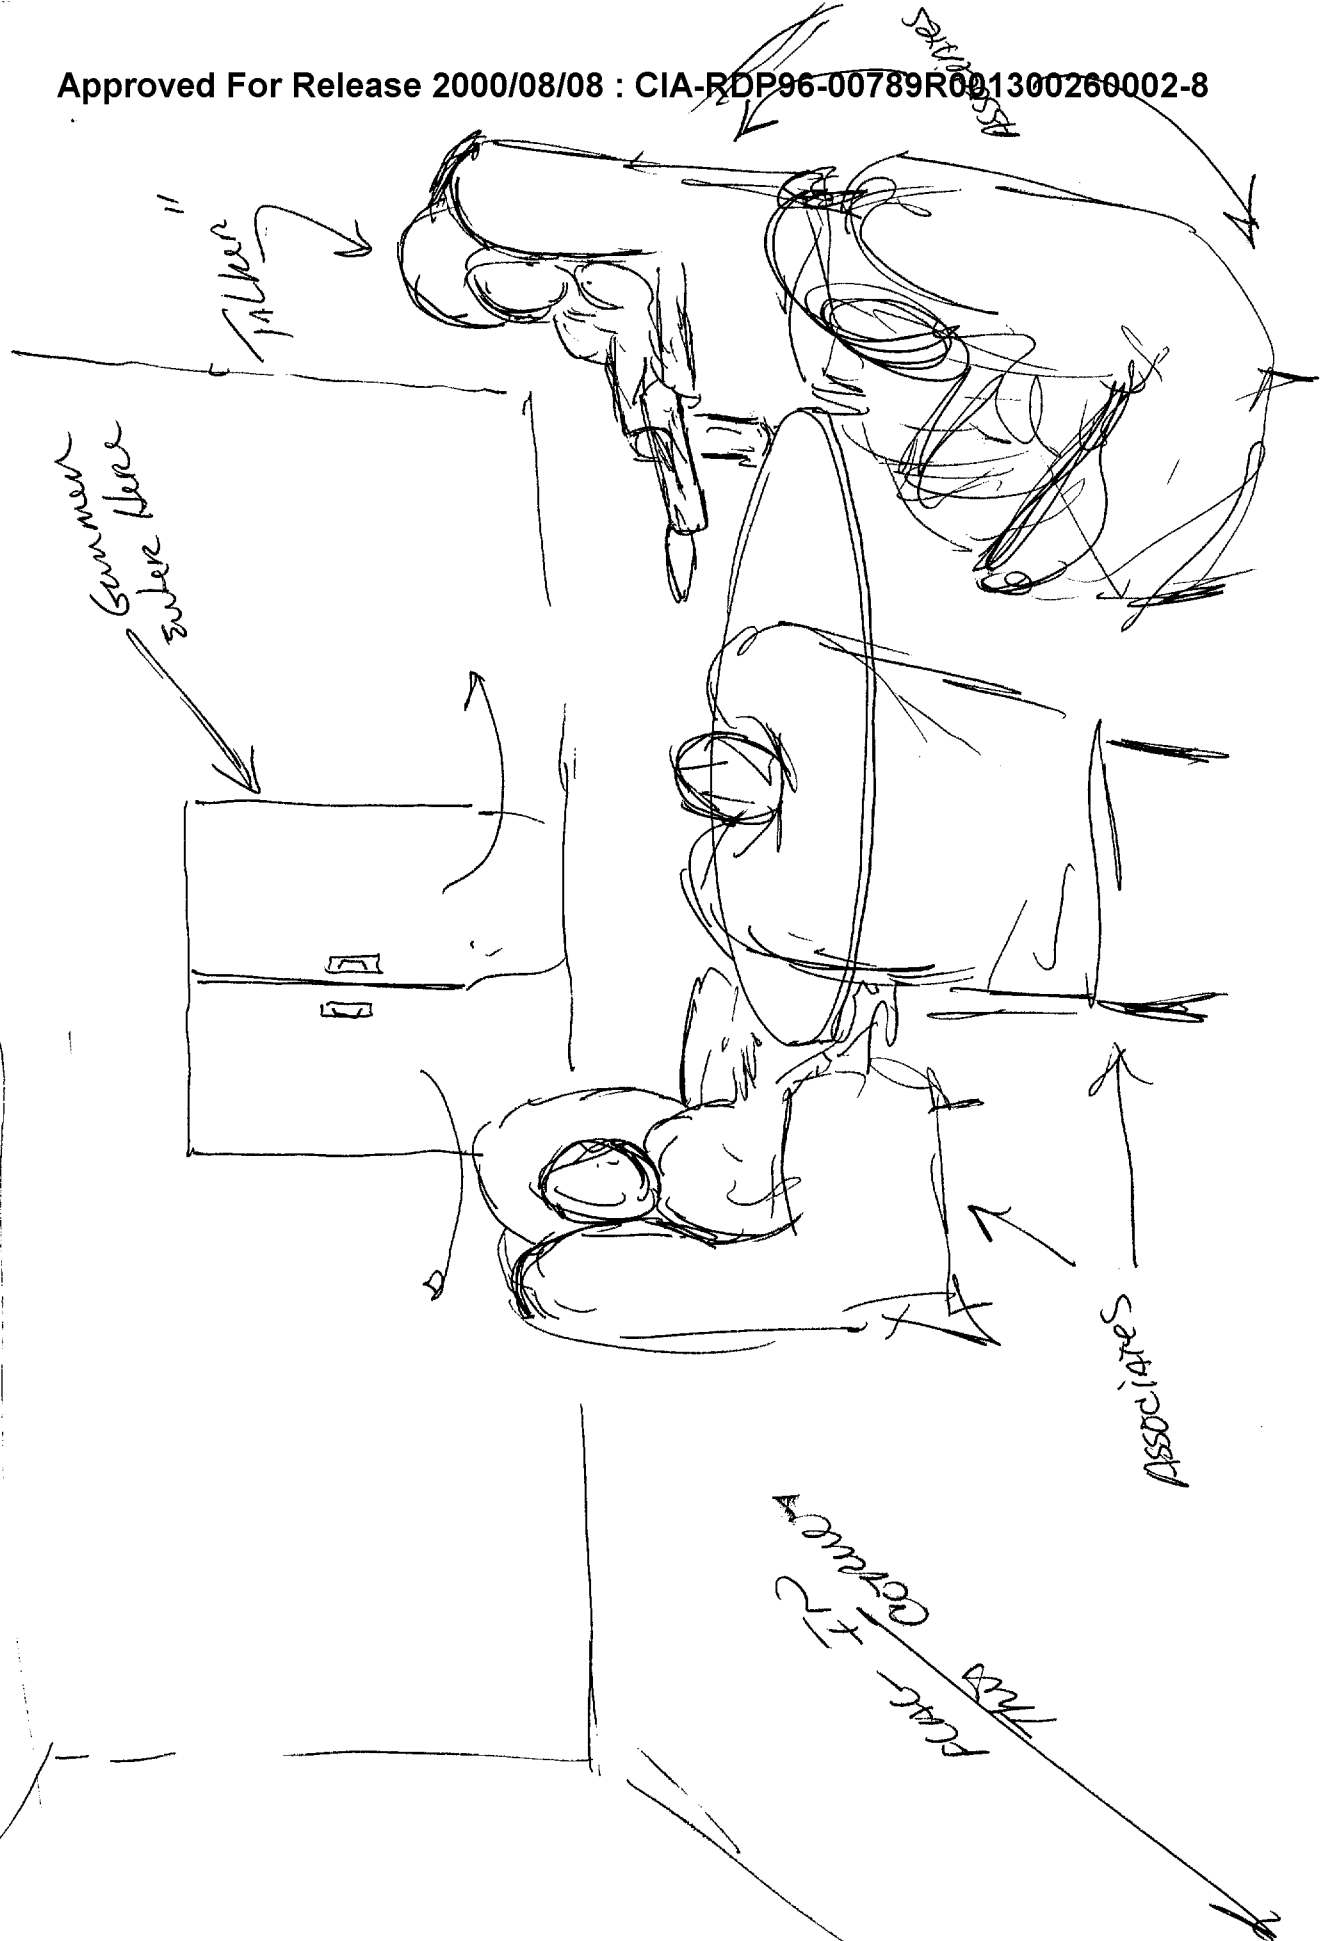

The other two men say very little, they just look on, nod their heads and politely ask questions when and where they feel they are needed.

Several men barge into the room and begin shooting. The man who was doing all the talking is the target -- along with his associate. They are gunned down in cold blood right where they are seated. Both of them fall to the floor in front of their seats. There is blood and smoke every where. The other men stand up and walk out of the room with the gunmen. They appear to know each other, although they are obviously not of the same character.

There was a flag in the room -- which was positioned on a stand in one of the corners. The colors of the flag are lime green, blue and yellow. I was reminded of the Brazilian flag. The language that the men spoke was not English. I think that it was Spanish but that may only be because of the appearance of the "Talker", he looked very Latin.
